JACQUELINE SULLIVAN

Friday, October 1, 2021 and
Saturday, October 2, 2021

10 a.m. to 1 p.m., via Zoom
SfC membership is required

Cost: $80 by check, payable to OCSfC

This class is about building a painting layer by layer. Students will work on paper with water media and acrylic inks. Transparent washes will be layered with various styles of broad-edged or brush lettering, mark making and handwriting to form a luscious abstract work. Participants will learn asemic writing techniques. In the end, we will use some fragments of our works to make a small “pocket book” with watercolor cards that contain some of our favorite words. We’ll work with just a few colors of watercolor and do some color mixing exercises to learn what colors we can make with our limited palette. We’ll write with waterproof pens and do our calligraphy with waterproof acrylic inks in order to be able to layer with our watercolors.

A kit containing small amounts of absorbent ground, super matte medium and paints is available for $15 (postage included) from:
